GEORGE A. CHAPMAN.

Testimonial to the Merits of Silas Wright.
The news of the death of Silas Wright had reached New York just as his friends were about to give a public testimonial of the high regard in which they hold his character and his public services. A subscription paper was circulated some weeks since among the merchants of that city, of which the following is a copy:

"The Merchants of the City of New York, desiring to present to Gen. John A. Dix, a New York City of Silas Wright, as a testimonial of their esteem and respect for his public and personal character, respectively subscribe for that purpose the following sums:

A considerable sum was immediately collected, and a service of plate was ordered, bearing this inscription:

"PRESENTED TO
SILAS WRIGHT, BY HIS MERCHANT FRIENDS OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, IN TESTIMONY OF THEIR HIGH RESPECT AND REGARD."

The service of plate is now ready for the presentation, which was to have taken place in a very few days. It will of course now pass into the possession of his family. As a testimonial to his merits, says the Exe. Post, it is the spontaneous tribute of men, who had no interested designs to promote by it they have done. The contributors are not politicians of that class who are looking for offices or would even accept them if offered. They admired and revered the man, and wished to give him a token of their sincere and unthought respect both for his public and his private virtues.

Gov. Wright, says the Albany Atlas, was only 52 years of age. He was born in the town of Amherst, Massachusetts, on the 24th of May, 1795. The subsequent year his father and family removed to Vermont. In 1815 he was graduated at Middlebury College, in that State, and in the fall of that year removed to this State, to commence the study of law at Sandy Hill. In the fall of 1823 he was elected to the State Senate, from St. Lawrence county. In 1826 he was elected to Congress. In 1829 he was chosen State Comptroller, to which office he was in 1832, re-elected by the Legislature. In 1833 he was chosen U. S. Senator, to which office he was re-elected in 1837, for the term of six years. In 1843 he was again re-elected, and in 1844 was called from the Senate to take the post of Governor, on which he entered on the 1st of January, 1845, and from which he retired on the 1st of January, 1847.

The Republican and Sentinel of Ogdensburg, gives a few particulars of the calamity which struck down one of the noblest men in the country. On Friday morning he called at the post office, (which is also the medical office of Dr. Darius Clark, his family physician,) and seating himself, was perusing his papers, when he was seized with a pain in the chest, of which he complained, and said that it was extending through his limbs, and that they were powerless. His physician was called in, and after receiving some aid, he remained an hour, or thereabouts, when Dr. Clark accompanied him to his house. He took to bed and the Doctor got him into a gentle perspiration and left, a few minutes after which he departed this life from apoplexy. The intelligence of the departure of this great and good man from the scene of earthly hopes and ambition, was communicated before night on Friday, throughout the line of telegraphic communication—as far west as Columbus, Ohio, and east to Boston, and south to Richmond, Va. The shock that paralyzed that noble heart and closed forever the working of that calm, strong brain, spread through the frame of the country and was imparted, almost simultaneously, to millions of sympathizing minds.

No better idea can be given of the pursuits and character of Silas Wright than is furnished by the following narrative of an officer of the army, who had visited him at his own home and fireside:

"I had occasion to visit Canton in October, and as soon as I arrived I inquired for the residence of Mr. Wright. I was directed to a small neat cottage, whither I made my way; and on approaching it I saw a man, with his coat off, wheeling a wheelbarrow along one of the walks of a very fine garden which was attached to the house. As I came near, I discovered that the laborer was my friend Wright. He received me with great cordiality; said his garden was cultivated mainly by his own hands, and that he was putting away his winter vegetables, and preparing to depart for Washington towards the last of the coming month. He further said, with the greatest apparent satisfaction, that he had recently purchased a farm, and intended to extend his agricultural operations. He was asked how large the farm was that he had purchased—to which he said, twenty acres—that either from natural inclination, or the effect of early habit, he was much devoted to the pure and simple pursuits and pleasures of the country."

DEATH OF SILAS WRIGHT.—We are pained to announce the sudden decease of the Hon. Silas Wright. This sudden bereavement will cause a thrill of anguish in a multitude of hearts. Mr. Wright has long been one of the most prominent citizens of this State; he filled the office of Governor and U. S. Senator, and at the date of his decease would probably have been President of the United States, had he not peremptorily refused to be a candidate. He possessed a strong and well-balanced mind, and unbending integrity. Few men of so much political distinction have closed life with so enviable a result. He was naturally of a full habit, with a tendency of blood to the head. To this tendency, doubtless, is to be attributed his sudden departure. His age we do not know, but suppose it must have been about 65.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

RESPECT TO THE MEMORY OF GOV. WRIGHT.—On the announcement of the death of this distinguished man the national flag was displayed at half mast from all the public buildings and hotels in the city.—N. Y. Jour. of Com.

Stages.
We are gratified to state to Messrs. J. & P. Voorhees & Co. are now running a daily line of four horse Post coaches through to St. Louis. This is the line which caused so much trouble a few months back, and turned many a passenger in other directions. They also run a line direct to Springfield, Ill. The coaches are all entirely new, and furnished with the best of teams and careful drivers. The running time from this city to St. Louis is 50 hours, being the quickest and cheapest route to that place. We state these facts for the information of the public and our friends generally, who will be governed accordingly. Our word for it, they will meet with neither unnecessary delay nor disappointment under the present management.

That is much more than we can say for the Indiana Journal. As to party allegiance, we deny disregarding it, when that party is right; and we hope over to continue as "independent" as we have always been in past times; ready at all times to "speak out our real sentiments," and condemn wrong by exposing it to the people, whether found in our own or in any other party. We hope to see the Journal one day "independent" enough to "speak out its real sentiments," instead of, as usual, resorting to the most miserable species of clap-trap for no other purpose than to throw dust in the eyes of its readers.

The Brookline American says: "By a letter from Dr. Geo. Berry, to a friend in this place, we learn that the Doctor intends returning home in November, and will claim his seat in the Senate of Indiana. He contends that he is entitled to it."

CLAMS.—Look out for the Little Rooster. He's coming. Give him a "cornd cow, Matey; and if you can't give him a cornd cow, give him a kousk."

WHAT'S THE MATTER?—Brother Clarkson's head is out of order. Hope it didn't occur at the expense of any body's pledge!

ALABAMA.—Chapman's majority (official) is 6,936! Democratic majority on joint ballot of the Legislature, 25.

More Volunteers.
It will be seen by the following proclamation of the Governor, that Col. James H. Lane has received authority from the War Department for raising for the war, a regiment of volunteer infantry, to be formed wholly or principally from the officers and men of this State who have been in service in Mexico. This, however, does not prevent others from volunteering; and those who do so earliest, will stand the best chance of being retained.

We have concluded it best to publish the orders of the Adjutant General in full—assuring all desirous of going, that they must enrol their names quickly, or they will be too late. This also is the very best season to go to Mexico, as on their arrival, cold weather will have set in, and no doubt but the regiment, under the gallant Lane, will be immediately marched to the table lands of Mexico, where the climate is as healthy and delightful as any in the world.

A PROCLAMATION
By the Governor of the State of Indiana.

WHEREAS, a communication from the Acting Secretary of War, dated on the 26th day of the present month, has this day been received, enclosing a copy of a letter of the same date, from the War Department to Col. James H. Lane, of Lawrenceburg, authorizing him to raise for the war, a regiment of volunteer infantry, to be formed wholly or principally from the officers and men of this State, who have been in service in Mexico;

Now therefore, I, James Whitcomb, Governor of the State of Indiana, do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to raise, organize, equip, and send to Mexico, a regiment of volunteer infantry, to be formed wholly or principally from the officers and men of this State, who have been in service in Mexico;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;

And I do hereby authorize and empower Col. Lane, to accept of any and all offers of arms, accoutrements, and other supplies, which may be made to him, for the use of the said regiment, and to receive and expend the same, in such manner as he may think proper, for the use of the said regiment;
